A wonderful game to waste some time! Some people may frown at the energy bar (to explore a location, the player spends "energy", which is refilled either by waiting or with buying it with $), but for me it works just alright. In a lunchbreak you turn on the Lost lands and click through 4-5 locations (up to 15 min), then you go on with your life. Same thing could happen in the evening- 15 more minutes of elf saving. This way the player doesn't get bored, even though the very nature of this genre is repetitive. The game itself is quite high class. As you can see on the screenshots, the colors, the contrast and the object placing are very good. This means fun and not mindless pixel- hunting. p.s.: there are also quite a few puzzles, too (9th and 12th screenshot, e.g.). You'll love some and hate others with passion, but they are not frustratingly hard and also add to the fun factor.. love the game. Very fun and addictive game. Highly recommend this game.. love the game. its a very fun game if you like hidden object games. it is annoying with the energy and such but its not bad if you just wanna play it every now and then. i dont like that the hidden object hunts are timed. these games are supposed to be relaxing not put pressure on you. but its normally enough time .. Simple and a touch repetitive, but a nice way to relax! Sometimes the same objects tend to be in the same locations over and over again, which lessens the challenge a bit. And with the way some of them are situated, it is quite a challenge at times! I really rather enjoy the chest-opening minigames. The story could be a little more intense, and the writing a bit clearer, but the play itself is about what one should expect. Free game, no worries.. I really love this game. I love hidden object games, and have played enough of them to know what a good one is like. While this game has some potential, there is a lot of room for improvement. Pros: Story line is pretty decent. Cons: Each time you explore an area, you use energy, and a large amount of it. You either have to wait several hours for it to replenish or spend money to buy more. The amount of time you are given to explore an area is only 1 minute. This is not enough time to find hidden objects, especially if the graphics aren't that great. If you are zoomed out of a picture, they graphics are nice, but when you zoom in to locate a hard to find object, the graphics become pixelated and somewhat distorted. Also, when you find a chest, you only have a very limited amount of time to solve a puzzle to open it. Overall: Game play time is limited and you almost feel rushed to complete puzzles and hidden object areas.. It's a nice little spin on the regular format of hidden item games, what with the quests and all. Though the energy requirement is a little irritating.
